Dear Parents - Are you feeling the frustration of confinement and being stuck at home while social distancing? You are not alone. We are all in the process of reinventing life as we know it. You can break up the monotony by incorporating some fun activities indoors. Here are some ideas:

- Create a “hammock” – 2 adults hold a blanket, ask your child to sit inside and swing
- Go “swimming” in the bath tub
- Make a drawing or card for a loved one
- Have a Dance Party
- Make homemade playdough
- Play Hide & Seek
- Paint pasta & string it to make a necklace
- Bake cookies or muffins
- Fill sink with soapy water and wash toys
- Build a fort of cushions, sheets or blankets
- Have a Tea Party
- Video chat with family and friends
- Create an Obstacle Course
- Make a match game from plastic eggs.
  Open them up. Place small objects under each half, mixing up the colors. Start with a few, and add more to increase challenge (see ideas)
